ABOUT ME

Who am I?

I have a Master's degree in Telecommunications and Informatics Engineering, with a broad background in programming, networking, embedded systems, Internet of Things, machine learning and full stack.

My professional experience bloomed through my Master's dissertation, which led me to the Research & Development environment, where I've been developing extended reality experiences, mobile applications, communication features, back-office systems, 3D scene configuration tools, and backend services, usually for industrial or learning contexts. I have also contributed to five published conference papers.

I'm open to work in a wide range of fields, with a particular interest in the fields of Internet of Things, extended reality and backend development, and always eager to learn new things.
